LANGUAGE CHANGE AND LANGUAGE CONTACT Sarah G. Thomason University of Michigan Mainstream historical linguistics came rather late to the knowledge that language contact can, and often does, lead directly to structural linguistic changes. Leading gures expressed a rm belief in severe constraints on structural interference; Meillet, for instance, believed

~~LANGUAGE CHANGE AND LANGUAGE CONTACT~~

Language contact is the social and linguistic phenomenon by which speakers of different languages (or different dialects of the same language) interact with one another, leading to a transfer of linguistic features.

~~Definition and Examples of Language Contact~~

Language contact occurs when speakers of two or more languages or varieties interact and influence each other. The study of language contact is called contact linguistics. When speakers of different languages interact closely, it is typical for their languages to influence each other. Language contact can occur at language borders, between adstratum languages, or as the result of migration, with an intrusive language acting as either a superstratum or a substratum. Language contact occurs in a v
