straightforward. There ' s no longer a need to consider CPUs or cores. And if you only use SAP BusinessObjects as display-only BI, then named user licences are not necessary either.

Understanding the SAP Business Objects Licensing Model

Access BO Central Management Console and select " Users and Groups " . You can do it in two different ways: Go to user, right click and select " Member of " . Then select the user group. Go to user groups, right click and select " Add member to Group " I prefer using the second option because you can add many users to the user group at once.
